

How we can help

We can help you to grow and succeed through a variety of ways:

Networks - Which creates and manages networks providing support for regional businesses and the scientific community driving best practice and collaboration for successful business development.

Infrastructure - Which focuses on creating physical environments, laboratory space and equipment for early and mid-life science businesses.

Technology Management - Which undertakes a wide range of activities from horizon scanning, market research, project management, technology development and business opportunity targeting.

Venturing - Which provides expert senior management teams to early stage technology companies bringing business and strategic planning advice, driving fundraising to support growth and commercialisation of IP

CBSL - Cels' commercial arm CBSL provides business focused services to public and private clients, delivering performance improvement solutions to meet your needs.